About BCRF
The Breast Cancer Research Foundation (BCRF) is a nonprofit organization committed to achieving prevention and a cure for breast cancer. It provides critical funding for cancer research worldwide to fuel advances in tumor biology, genetics, prevention, treatment, metastasis and survivorship. Since its founding in 1993 by the late Evelyn H. Lauder, BCRF has raised more than half a billion dollars for lifesaving research. Through a unique and streamlined grants program, it seeks out the brightest minds in science and medicine and gives them the necessary resources to pursue their best ideas. As result, researchers are able to make discoveries and design new approaches to address all aspects of breast cancer – and do so in record time.
